Fundraising run for the Chad Hancock Foundation

Under the Mile End Bridge Santos Stadium

22 Runners

As tonight's run was a fundraising night for the Chad Hancock Foundation, it was all hands on deck by the committed team. As there was plenty to do like selling raffle tickets, lucky squares and handing the tin around for donations.

Where else would you expect a bunch of finely tuned Hash Athletes to turn up and run from but none other than Adelaide's best running track - Santos Stadium. Well the closest we could get to it anyway, being under the bridge next to the car park.

As the majority of the committed was setting up and explaining to the local security that we were a running club on a fundraising night, Nifty set the small group of runners off.

With a few words of wisdom from Nifty, both packs of runners and walkers headed off in the direction of Bakewell Bridge in search of trail. With new roads, paths and tracks around since our last venture out around this area, the Hares took full advantage at the checks.

As the runners found the checks, there was one check that they stayed for a while, as Nifty had left them a present – a pair of shoes that he was trying to find the owner. I think Nifty was looking for Cinderella.

During the run, we believe Gonefor was checking out trial for her run in a few weeks. As they run through the streets of Mile End, Richmond, Marlestone, Ashford and Keswick, two hashers were seen to have gone in to a house at Keswick for a quickie. The rest of the pack was not happy that there wasn't even a drink stop organised here while they waited.

As the committed team had organised the trailer and had started to open up all the "Tins" - oh yes it was "tin night" on this fundraising night; the walkers returned from their leisurely stroll through the streets of Mile End. Not long after, the runners also returned for a well deserved drink.

Now let's get back to the shoes.... Yes Nifty did find Cinderella..... C*ocknee
